3000 jobs coming to Goole as major Capitol Park development gets go ahead

massive 3,000 jobs will be created at a major new centre in East Yorkshire after the development was given the official go-ahead.

The new employment and distribution hub in Capitol Park, Goole, was granted planning consent by East Riding Council in February.

This week, the plans for the 2.14 million sq ft expansion of the park were fully approved, meaning thousands of new jobs will be created.

The development, which was out together by Capitol Park owners Sterling Capitol and the Homes and Communities Agency (HCA), will include a mix of warehouse units, retail and leisure facilities and car showrooms, along with a 100-bed hotel.

Mike Heydecke, director of Sterling Capitol, said there could be potential for a future dedicated rail link to the site, which is called Goole 36 and Capitol Park. "This is tremendous news. Although our proposals were approved in principle in February, there were a number of planning conditions and hurdles, including a Section 106 agreement, still to be sorted out," he said. "These have all now been satisfied. Now we can crack on with this exciting development, which will provide a much-needed boost to the area's economy."

Capitol Park, which already boasts Tesco, Drax and Guardian Glass, is situated close to junction 36 of the M62.

Able Humber Port to develop £25m BMW pre-delivery inspection facility creating 100 jobs

BMW is motoring into the Grimsby-area with the creation of a huge import base, as a £25 million plan was given the green light, creating 100 jobs.

Next year will see a near 6,000 sq m pre-delivery inspection facility built as part of Able Humber Port at North Killingholme, in what is a major expansion of the vehicle storage and distribution operations.

Port of Immingham already welcomes thousands of the 'ultimate driving machines' annually, and the establishment of the huge base, ensuring cars are 'showroom ready,' will secure the port destination for a minimum of nine years, after a contract was signed with BMW Group.

The large building – 175m long and 38m wide – will feature a huge workshop with inspection, wash, paint and repair bays, as well as stores and staff welfare areas. It has just received planning consent from North Lincolnshire Council.

It will sit within a 60 acres site – equivalent to 200 Olympic swimming pools – close to Rosper Road, within the enormous Able Marine Energy Park footprint, which enjoys enterprise zone status.

Able executive chairman Peter Stephenson said: "This is a major step forward in the development of Able Humber Port. We already have well-established large-scale vehicle and storage facilities and this new contract involves a further £25 million investment.

"We are delighted to have such a prestigious company as BMW Group as a new client.

"Able Humber Port is ideally placed for the kind of facilities required by major vehicle manufacturers, with both the space and the proximity to ports handling vehicle movements."

It is scheduled for completion at the end of next year, with the whole site providing storage for 10,000 vehicles on an approximate 60-acre site – equivalent to almost 200 Olympic swimming pools. Able will provide the facility and it will be operated by Grimsby-based GBA Group.

The company is an award-winning leader in the automotive supply chain, having been launched by Capt Sam Judah MBE, who used to sail the car-carrying vessels into the Humber. It was a key partner with ABP in the development of Grimsby River Terminal, a £26 million investment beside the Dock Tower.

Hull in UK's top job-hunting places with Siemens, university and City of Culture

Hull is one of the best cities in the UK to look for work this year.

According to job site CV-Library, the City of Culture is the seventh best place to look for work behind Liverpool, London and Manchester.

Leader of Hull City Council, Councillor Stephen Brady, said: "I think people in Hull feel there are more opportunities for them now. The more jobs there are on offer in Hull also means there are more opportunities for the city.

"In terms of the number of people looking for opportunities in the city I think people are beginning to realise the opportunities that are here.

"There have been a number of positive comments about the city, particularly in the broadsheets, and I think that is changing Hull's reputation. I think it's probably because the perception of the city is changing."

Cllr Brady said he was not surprised people were considering moving from city to city to look for work.

The investment coming in from Siemens' wind turbine blade factory, alongside large firms such as RB and Smith and Nephew offering great opportunities, means Hull has its fair share of choice for a range of different qualifications.

He said: "It's very different from years ago when people would expect to stay in the same job, in the same place, for 20, 25 years. These days people want to move around more, in location and in their work."

He also said the University helped to bring new blood into the area, particularly attracting students this year.
